

Quality & Auditing Courses

The ISO 9001, 14001, BS 18001 and BS 16001 standards for quality management systems requires that organisations carry out internal audits of their systems. Internal audits are important to confirm that established processes are being implemented effectively. When used correctly, audits can be an important management tool for continuous improvement. Whilst the majority of our courses are primarily designed to train Quality Auditors they are also immensely useful for auditees, implementers and those tasked with being responsible for Quality and Management.
